School board approves contract to buy site

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Hancock County School Board Tuesday okayed a contract to purchase 45.5 acres near the Stennis International Airport as a site for the new junior-senior high school. The contract outlined an agreement to purchase the property for $170,625 which will take effect in 30 days. Approval of the contract was a repeat of the action taken in an 8 a.m. meeting Monday. In Tuesday evening's meeting Board Member Wayne King questioned the validity of the Monday special meeting which was not called by the board president. After the question was raised by King, the contract for the land was considered and approved by a 3-2 vote. Board Members Frank Miller, Lennette Necaise and Barbara Dedaux voted in favor of the $170,625 price for the site. King and Billie Faye Lyons opposed the purchase of the site for the new school. Both King and Lyons also opposed the site when it was selected and submitted to the State Department of Education for approval. The site is also adjacent to the Stennis Industrial Airpark and the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission was also negotiating to buy the property. Landowners' representative Terry White said Monday, they had decided to sell the land to school district because they owned "a lot of land" in the area and thought this would be best in the long run. He also said the contract would be reviewed by their attorneys because of revisions in the language but the basic agreement was suitable. White also said the school district's price was a little less than what the Port and Harbor Commission were offering.

In other business the board: Approved a recommendation to employ Myrtle Lee Jordan as teacher aide for the Assistant Teacher Team Project. Approved a recommendation to employ Ethlyn Johnson, Stephen C. Getman and Susan Kay Necaise as substitute teachers at Hancock North Central Elementary School. Approved a recommendation to employ Dennis Lockler, RN, to provide special education and special olympics physicals for the Hancock County School District. Approved a recommendation to employ Gloria Dean, Myrna Bourgeois, Jo Jenkins, J. Howard Geiselman and a psychometrist from the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center as consultant psychometrists on an as needed basis. Accepted a low quote of $1,298 from Office Supply Company to furnish two fireproof filing cabinets for use at Hancock North Central Elementary School. Approved a $1,400 quote from Data Processing Consultant to furnish a 400 cps matrix printer for use in the Central Office Accounting Department.

Approved a $1,797 quote from Sportsman's Corner to furnish physical education equipment for Hancock North Central Elementary. Approved the final inspection report of the storm damage roof repair at Hancock North Central. Approved a $30,222 payment to United Roofing Company and a $539 payment to Architect Fred Wagner for work on the roof repair project at Hancock North Central.

Commission to request zoning near Stennis

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Monday voted to ask supervisors to initiate zoning of property around the Stennis Industrial Airpark. Commission President Ronald Artigues said this should help the commission in future expansion plans. This action was taken following a discussion of a sale of a site near the airpark which the commission had been negotiating to purchase to the Hancock County School District. The recommendation calls for a light industrial zoning of all property within the immediate vicinity of the industrial airpark. In earlier meetings the commission had expressed an urgency to acquire the site due for expansion of the park. Artigues said in a meeting with the supervisors that this site was the only feasible way for expansion and utilities in the park had been designed and installed with this expansion in mind. Commission Director Buz Olsen reported last week he had received a letter for a Federal Aviation Administration official expressing objections to the school district's plan to build a new junior-senior high school near the airpark. In his letter, Elton E. Jay, principal engineer for Planning and Development of the FAA, said the construction of a school will be a violation of an agreement between the county supervisors and the FAA prior to the awarding of several grants for development of the park. Also at the meeting the commission approved a sublease to Rickey Pujol by the Fishermen's Association for loading dock facilities at Bayou Cadet Marina. The commission also discussed a video to serve as a sales aid for prospective tenants of the airpark and Port Bienville Industrial Park and expansion of security services at Stennis.

UW passes one-third mark

The United Way of Hancock County has received donations and pledges of more than $21,700. Conrad L. Maufray, United Way executive director said Monday the figure represents more than one-third of the United Way 1987 goal of $65,000. Gifts have been received from more than 200 individuals and already exceed the number of individual gifts received last year. Campaign Chairman Lonnie Clayborn pointed out that gifts of as little as thirty cents for each agency supported by United Way are very much appreciated—that is what each $5 donation provides. All of the agencies have greater needs than ever before, so everyone is asked to be as generous as possible, Clayborn added.

Employees of companies sponsoring United Way campaigns can give through payroll deduction. Other pledges or donations may be sent to United Way of Hancock County, P.O. Box 142, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520. Anyone wanting a pamphlet describing the 17 agencies or having any questions may phone Conrad Maufray at 467-6535.

School board election set Tuesday

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
A run-off election for the District 3 representative on the Hancock County School Board is set for Nov. 17. Carol Bustetter of Diamondhead and Billy Joe Ladner of Necaise Crossing received the highest number of votes in the General Election last week. The winner of this election will serve the unexpired portion of former board member Tommy Shaw who resigned in March of this year. This term will expire at the end of 1988. Hancock County Election Commission Secretary Charles F. Gottschalk reported this week that 19 of the 26 precincts will be open for the election. Although the winner will represent District 3, the election is held at large for all voters in the school district. No voters who live within the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District will vote in the Tuesday election. The polls which will not be open include Waveland East, Waveland West, North Bay West, South Bay,

Card of Thanks

Being in the health care profession I realize that all too often exceptional care given to a loved one goes unmentioned.
 I feel compelled to thank a wonderful physician, Dr. Sidney Chevis and his exceptional nurse, Nel Walker. I hope all of us in the community realize the devotion and love that they give to all of their patients.
 We are very lucky to have such a physician and nurse in this area.
 I wish also to recognize the excellent care given at Hancock Medical Center when Mrs. Gertrude Sheppard was a patient there. The nurses were kind and caring.
 And finally to the nurses and staff of South Mississippi Home Health Agency—a big thanks you for assisting me and my family at home.
 Your acts of generosity and love will never be forgotten by us. I know Mrs. Sheppard would want to hug each of you and thank you personally because that's the kind of lady she was!

With deepest gratitude,
 Rose Helwig, R.N.

Correction

In a Sea Coast Echo photo caption accompanying a picture of workers replacing the floor in the Valena C. Jones gym, workers were incorrectly identified as a Bay St. Louis City Crew.
 The work was actually done by Dorsey Cement Finishing and the crew consists of Wilbert Dorsey, Allen James, Wallace Haynes and David Thomas.
 The Echo apologizes for the error.

Benefit account opened for Shoreline woman

BY DENA BISNETTE
Hancock Bank has opened a special account to benefit a Hancock County woman in need of heart surgery.

Edith Juneau of Shoreline Park said that the money is needed to pay for her third heart catheterization in three years.

The surgery will determine whether she has a blockage in her heart, she stated.

Previous catheterizations in 1978 and 1984 indicated that she suffers from spasmodic angina and from Wolfe-Parkinson-White Syndrome, a condition involving incidences of rapid heartbeat that could result in cardiac arrest.

She is the patient of Dr. Ronald Woodall of Slidell, La. who has told her the surgery could cost up to $15,000 for hospitalization alone.

Juneau said she has also been told that she may be risking heart attack or stroke by delaying the surgery.

She needs $3,000 down if she chooses to have the surgery in Jackson, but Juneau said she would prefer to have Woodall do it.

Juneau explained that someone would have to stay with her in Jackson and that it would be a problem because her husband is unable to leave his job.

The benefit account, set up by Juneau's daughter-in-law Tammy Juneau and her sister, Hilda Kost, is needed because Juneau is not covered by insurance.

The firm employing Juneau's husband, Robert Juneau Sr., went through changes in its insurance program last year and Juneau is no longer covered because her disorder falls under the policy's restrictions on pre-existing conditions.

In addition, she has $19,000 more in medical bills than last year's insurance covered.

Her doctor lists Juneau in guarded condition and has told her she should be hospitalized, she said.

Although she has raised a number of foster children as well as working as a secretary for a home improvement firm, she said she is no longer able to continue even routine activities.

She has been unable to work for more than seven months and has been told not to leave her house. She must have a family member in the house at all times.

Even watching football on television, formerly one of her favorite leisure activities, is forbidden because the stress could aggravate her condition.

Other benefit efforts for Juneau are still being arranged.

Havens announces for Congress

Lynn Havens, Public Service Commissioner, Southern District announced he is a candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives, Fifth Congressional District.

Havens stated, "I have maintained great interest in this office for a very long time. This office is of great importance to the people of the Fifth Congressional District and the state of Mississippi as well as the nation. I have devoted years of preparation to be in a position to serve you when the opportunity was made available. This office is too important for someone to wake up one morning and discover that there is a vacancy and decide to run."

"My two terms in the Mississippi House of Representatives and eight years as a regulator in the Executive Branch of Government will be extremely advantageous to the people of the Fifth Congressional District. These jobs have not only given me legislative, judicial, and administrative experience, but have given me the opportunity to represent our people on numerous issues before Congress and federal agencies."

Havens further stated, "I will approach this office with the same determination that I have as a regulator and a member of the Mississippi House of Representatives. This office's main purpose is to serve the people. My record in office will reflect that service to the people has always come first with me."

"Over the past eight years I have been instrumental in obtaining refunds of almost three-quarters of a billion dollars to the utility customers of this state. Also, during my eight years as commissioner we have returned to the state over $22.5 million after paying all expenses to the commission. This brought about a further savings to the taxpayers of this state."

"I hope that you will find that my service and my record reflect that I am worthy and well qualified to seek this promotion to the Fifth Congressional District seat. As your next congressman, I solicit your support, your vote, and most of all your prayers."

The incumbent Fifth District congressman, Rep. Trent Lott of Pascagoula, has announced he will seek the U.S. Senate seat to be vacated by Senator John Stennis who is retiring.

The motto In God We Trust first appeared on U.S. coins in 1864.

The City of Waveland will be hopping next year with the celebration of 100 years.

Waveland Mayor John Longo and city leaders are planning some big events for the celebration.

The year of 1988 can be a very big one for the residents and natives of Waveland.

I can recall the fun we had at the newspaper for the celebration of Bay St. Louis' centennial in 1958.

Since I am a native of Waveland, I will be looking forward to the celebration events.

As information becomes available, we will be passing it on to our readers.

This is the time of year when our lawns become covered with tree leaves.

It is a good idea to rake the leaves and remove them from our lawns. This is a safety measure in addition to being a way to help the appearance of our property.

The very long dry spell in addition to dead leaves and grasses can cause a serious fire threat to our homes.

We would like to caution everyone to please be extremely cautious with fire.

Firefighters throughout the state and nation have been extremely busy fighting wild fires in recent weeks, and most of them have been set.

Most of us will be looking forward to Spring when our landscapes will once again be green in color.

The 1987 Hancock County United Way fund drive is well underway with about one-third received towards a goal of $65,000.

The United Way works in so many areas in Hancock County supporting some 17 agencies.

It is hoped that everyone who can will make a special effort to give a 'fair share' to the United Way.

Some may ask just what is a 'fair share'. A 'fair share' is the equivalent to one hour of pay per month.

The easiest way to give to the United Way is through payroll deductions which are offered by most companies. If you are a resident, be sure to designate your contributions to the Hancock County United Way.

Persons wishing to make a contribution may do so by sending it to: Hancock County United Way, P.O. Box 142, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520.

Remember, Give the United Way — Thanks to you it works for all of us.

The People's Business

Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

A CHANCE FOR CHANGE

Mississippi has a chance for real change and progress during the 1988 Legislative Session.

The state will have a new governor, new legislative leadership, and many new faces in its legislative bodies.

Governor-Elect Ray Mabus has given his commitment to strengthening the areas of education, economic development, and government efficiency. He supports legislation requiring mandatory implementation of the county unit system, one of the priorities of state business leaders.

Mississippi Economic Council Chairman Kenneth Milam says the state's largest business organization will be very aggressive in the effort to get its full legislative agenda passed in 1988.

Business leaders will be pushing for tort reform, mandatory county unit, and a reduction in government regulation, along with several other items that will promote business development in the state.

With the state's new leadership and an attitude of change running through Mississippi, the timing is right for progress in many of the areas the Legislature has ignored in past years.

Milam says that many of the things business has been pushing for will come through this year.

The business agenda of good management and the encouragement of business and industrial development will be aggressively pushed. And, business leaders think the state's lawmakers will respond.

Governor's Snowflake Ball scheduled for Nov. 28

Handicapped individuals, elderly persons and residents of long-term care facilities are invited to attend the fourth annual Governor's Snowflake Ball Saturday, Nov. 28 from 1:30 until 3:30 p.m. at Jackson's Ramada Inn Coliseum.

Music for the dance, which attracted more than 300 participants from across the state last year, will be provided by the Pat Patterson Band. Admission is free, and holiday cookies and punch will be served.

The event is hosted by members of C.A.P.S. (Careers in Aging Patients Services) and Clinton Country Manor. Coordinators are Peggy Marshalek, patient activity consultant, and Gwen Dawkins, activity director, Clinton Country Manor.

Sponsors include the Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs, Governor's Corporate Voluntary Action Committee and the Mississippi Hospital Association Swingbed project.

For information, contact Mrs. Marshalek at 924-2277 or Federal-State Programs' Office of Handicapped Services at 949-2012.

United States Senator

Thad Cochran

RURAL DEVELOPMENT

Senator Thad Cochran (R-Miss.) said sound rural development programs are "vital to the economic progress of the nation and Mississippi." Such programs are best served when "the federal government has a cooperative, working partnership with local communities."

His remarks came at the annual meeting of the East Mississippi Electric Power Association in Meridian. The rural electric cooperative serves about 26,000 consumers in a multi-county area around Meridian.

Senator Cochran, ranking member of the Appropriations panel on Agriculture and Rural Development, briefed the group on legislation in Congress involving rural electrification (REA) and other issues affecting economic development in rural areas.

He noted that, nationwide, rural electric co-ops such as East Mississippi EPA have power lines spanning about 75 percent of the land mass and serve over ten percent of the U.S. population.

"The reason the rural electrification program has been so successful in serving our more sparsely settled areas is because it is a federal program that is locally implemented, locally operated and locally controlled."

The Senator said, "It is essential that other rural development programs incorporate the same partnership that has made rural electrification so successful."

He challenged the cooperative members to help provide "leadership in your communities to move Mississippi forward in economic development, job creation, education and transportation."

Senator Cochran pledged to "continue championing the cause of Rural America in Congress. That is where I was born and raised, and I am proud to serve in the Senate on behalf of Rural America."

TAXPAYERS' BILL OF RIGHTS

Senator Cochran is part of a bipartisan initiative to enact a "taxpayers' bill of rights." The announcement came this morning during a Capitol Hill news conference.

Senator Cochran was an original cosponsor of the first draft of the Omnibus Taxpayers' Bill of Rights Act, introduced in February. "There have been a number of hearings held in the Senate Finance Committee, as well as meetings with tax attorneys, CPA's former IRS employees, and business representatives from across the country to determine how the bill might be improved," the Senator said. "As a result, I think the redrafted version will attract a lot of support from Congress as well as from citizens who may have experienced unfair or heavy handed treatment by the Internal Revenue Service."

The will would: —Create within the Treasury Department an office of inspector general to audit and investigate IRS actions.

—Require the IRS to prepare a statement explaining the taxpayer's rights during an audit, and his options in filing an appeal or complaint. An explanation of the audit process would be read to the person being investigated.

—Establish a $10,000 fine or imprisonment of not more than 5 years if an IRS agent knowingly authorizes or conducts an irrelevant investigation of a taxpayer.

The Senator noted that a companion measure has been introduced in the House of Representatives. The Senate bill will be offered in the Senate Finance Committee as an amendment to the Budget Reconciliation Bill. "I think taxpayers have the right to be treated fairly by the IRS, and this bill will help make sure they are," he added.

Teams of Mississippi business leaders toured junior college campuses across the state this week in a fact-finding mission for recommendations on the junior college system.

Members of the Mississippi Economic Council toured five junior college campuses to gather information on the resources, services, and programs of the colleges.

The teams will use the information to make recommendations to the MEC Council on Education and board of directors on the state's junior college system.

Five junior colleges were selected for the tours, representing all areas of the state. Those visited were Pearl River Junior College in Poplarville, Jones County Junior College in Ellisville, Mississippi Delta Junior College in Moorhead, Hinds Community College in Raymond, and Itawamba Community College in Tupelo.

During the visits, the team members met with administrators to discuss the school's operations, strengths and needs. The teams also toured the campuses to get a first-hand look at the various programs offered, the condition of the school buildings, and the services available to students.

Some of the areas the teams focused on were the ratio of faculty to students, faculty salaries, faculty resignations, enrollment trends, entry requirements, financial needs, plans for expansions, involvement in state economic development efforts, services to business and industry, curricula, and organizational structure.

The MEC board of directors will review the findings and recommendations of the teams at its Nov. 18 meeting in Jackson.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

Ross Barnett was by far the most unforgettable character I have encountered in 40 years of covering the Mississippi scene.

Put aside for a moment his defiance of the federal government in 1962 that resulted in a mini-civil war on the lovely campus of the University of Mississippi. Or that he tried to reconstruct the state in the image of the Old Confederacy and make segregation a veritable state religion.

At his death last weekend, I preferred to think about Ross Barnett, the greatest standup comedian I've known, who never knew that he was funny. You might say I studied at the knee of Ole Ross, because I happened to be present when many of the funniest gems rolled off his tongue without his even trying.

Amidst the intense emotionalism that gripped the state at the height of the crisis in September, 1962 over admitting James Meredith, a black 29-year-old Air Force veteran, to hallowed all-white Ole Miss, Barnett dropped some of his unforgettable lines.

One occasion was on Sept. 25, 1962 at the Woolfolk state office building in Jackson when Ole Ross had one of his several fact-to-face confrontations with the slightly built black man.

Only five days before, Ross had turned Meredith away at the Ole Miss campus when the governor had coerced the state College Board into giving him powers as the university registrar. Back to the U.S. Fifth Circuit court of appeals in New Orleans Meredith and U.S. Justice Department attorneys had gone. This time, the court ordered the College Board to register Meredith at the board of offices on the 10th floor of the Woolfolk building.

About 30 minutes before the appointed time for the arrival of Meredith and his federal convoy at the state office building, Barnett strode out of the Capitol, crossed the street, and together with a squad of his legislative lieutenants (among them a young Grenada County representative named Brad Dye) headed for the college board suite.

There they pushed College Board members to the back of the offices, and took up position near the door to await Meredith's arrival. Downstairs, a black government automobile drove up and out stepped three men...one, James P. McShane, a burly Irish ex-cop who was Chief of the U.S. Marshals; another, a tall wavy-haired Justice Department attorney named John Doar, and the third a short black man with a pencil moustache.

Hordes of state employees who had turned out of the office building, and others from downtown office buildings angrily gave the three narrow passageway to enter the Woolfolk building and get on the elevator.

On the 10th floor, where I had taken up position about five feet from the entrance to the College Board offices, the three made their way through a mass of highway patrolmen, photographers, reporters and onlookers to the doorway of the College Board.

As Doar was about to knock on the door, it swung open and outstepped Barnett, with a legal-looking document in his hands. Peering at the three—the map of Ireland, the short black man, and the tall, pale midwesterner—Barnett cleared his throat in a typical guttural sound, and fixed his glasses.

"Which one of you is James Meredith?" Ole Ross asked with a perfectly straight face (Note: he did not say Mr. Meredith, or Meredith, as some printed versions have stated.)

Barnett went on to read the document in his hands. It turned out to be one of many proclamations he would issue during the crisis, "finally denying" Meredith's registration.

Doar inquired if the governor intended to prevent them from entering the board's offices. With several scowling legislators at his side, Barnett said he refused to allow the three to go past, declaring, "I do so politely."

"And we leave politely," the Justice Department attorney said as they turned to leave.

Then, as he had said to many Mississippians in a parting gesture, Barnett waved with his right hand and said, "Come see me sometime in the mansion."

Barnett was an unparalleled hero to Mississippians, who believed he had stopped the hated Kennedy brothers, Jack and Bobby, James Meredith and the federal government, in their tracks.

What they didn't know was that Barnett behind the scenes was holding secret conversations with the president and the attorney general to find a way to back down without losing face with his fellow Mississippians.

Tapes of conversations between President Kennedy and Barnett that are housed at the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston contain several hours of their behind-the-scenes talks during the crisis.

Snuggled in the midst of the serious negotiations over getting Meredith onto the Ole Miss campus and enrolled in school is a typical little Barnettism.

As Barnett ends one of the taped conversations with the president, he concludes: "and I appreciate your interest in our poultry program and all those things."

The President of the United States is heard on the tape to laugh in disbelief at what he is hearing from the embattled governor of Mississippi.

Only Ole Ross could pull such a thing.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trem Lou

A successful coach knows the rules of the game. The same can be said about a legislator.

I learned early in my legislative career that the Congressman who knows and uses the rules of the House is effective and successful. That's why I followed the tradition of the Fifth District of Mississippi. I, too, sit on the House Rules Committee.

Over the years, that position has helped me serve my constituents well. Together with my Whip position, I am able to work amicably with both Democrats and Republicans. And I take great pride in that relationship.

Over the past fifteen years, I have seen many high points and low points in the United States Congress. I have rejoiced in great victories and mumbled over defeats, but I could always hold my head high. Ninety-nine percent of the battles fought on the House floor are done so fairly. This next one was not.

Thursday, Oct. 29, 1987, was the darkest day I have ever witnessed in the House of Representatives. The rules were not used; they were abused, bent, and broken in a most unfair way.

Speaker of the House Jim Wright, not only lost twice, fair and square, but then reversed the result by abusing the rules. And he did so for all the wrong reasons.

After losing early in the day on a key vote, Wright adjourned the House, then called it back to order. What he did was create a new legislative day. This has been done just three times in the last 200 years. "Two days in one!" It doesn't make sense to me, but it did make sense to Jim Wright. That way he could resurrect the issue; bring it back from the dead, for another vote. All this on Thursday Oct. 29, 1987; the same day. The Speaker of the House broke the rules.

Then after losing a second time during the regular voting period, he kept the vote open: ten extra minutes, hoping someone, anyone, would change their vote. To Mr. Wright's dismay no one did. So the Speaker broke the rules again. After declaring "all time expired," he allowed a member of the House to switch his vote, therefore, reversing the result of the vote. The game clock ran out of time and Mr. Wright was still running plays; power plays. No referee, no yellow flags, just "street ball" at its ugliest.

What was this issue Mr. Wright went to bat swinging for? What was his concern? Mr. Wright voted to raise your taxes by twelve billion dollars and to raise his own salary. I voted "no" for both. A sad day in the House, indeed!

MPC rates remain stable

Mississippi Power Company has filed a Performance Evaluation Plan report with the state Public Service Commission that shows electric rates will remain unchanged under the plan for the fifth quarter in a row.

"Under this plan, our financial condition and overall performance is reviewed each quarter," Ed Blakeslee, the utility's vice president of Marketing said.

The company's financial condition is scrutinized each quarter to ensure earnings are in line with present market conditions. The company is also scored each quarter in seven areas of performance including frequency and duration of power outages, safety, rate comparisons with other utilities and how efficiently generating plants are run. If earnings are too high or too low, the company's performance record is used to determine how much of an increase or decrease is warranted.

"Our customers today are paying almost six percent less for electricity than they were in 1983," Blakeslee said.

Pork chops rate high on the favorite foods list for me these days, especially lean, meaty loin chops which lend themselves to so many variations in cookery.

They're a boon to the busy and hurried cook as well, whether for family meal or a company dinner, don't you think?

Happening upon a real "bargain buy" in pork chops at the store the other day, I found myself musing all the way home on various ways of cooking up the bonanza. First, of course, I asked a few friends over for an informal supper, for which I cooked:

CREOLE CHOPS

6 to 8 thick pork loin chops
2 medium onions, sliced rather thin
2 bell (green) peppers, sliced rather thin also 4 to 6 tomatoes, depending upon size

1 clove garlic, minced
1 cup burgundy wine
1 bay leaf
Several springs of parsley
Thyme to your taste
Pepper, salt

First, of course, trim the chops of excess fat, using some of this discarded fat to rub the bottom of a shallow baking dish. Place the chops in the dish, and cover with the onions, peppers and garlic.

If you're a tomato peeler, then peel the tomatoes; if not, slice them, unpeeled, or chunk them up, and spread over the chops. Add the wine, the bay leaf, parsley sprigs and spring of thyme, if you're using it. Season well, with plenty of black pepper—and, for me, dashes of cayenne and a splash of hot pepper sauce as well.

Cover and bake for two hours at 300 degrees, then serve with rice or sweet potatoes. (Six servings.)

As for the tomatoes, some cooks insist that they be peeled—others, including "peel or skin" eaters such as I, feel that much of the nutrients are lost when the skin or peel is discarded. I, for one, enjoy the skins of baked potatoes more than the potato itself.

And for a variation, try:

HASTY SKILLET SUPPER

6 chops, rib or loin, ¾ inch thick
½ tsp. black pepper, salt as desired
2 cloves garlic, minced, or ½ tsp. garlic powder
2 Tbsp. olive oil

1 can tomato sauce (small can)
¼ cup dry white wine
¼ tsp. oregano
2 green (bell) peppers, cut in thin strips

½ lb. fresh mushrooms, sliced.
Rub pepper, salt and garlic into chops. Heat the oil in a skillet and brown the chops on both sides. Add the tomato sauce, wine, oregano, peppers and mushrooms. Cover and cook over low heat for 25 or 30 minutes, until tender. (Six servings.)

Sometimes I add a couple of Italian sausages, sliced and browned, to this 10 or 15 minutes before the dish finishes cooking.

Election

City Hall, Central School and North Bay East.

Gottschalk also said only a few of the voters in the Arlington, Edwardsville and Courthouse precincts will be eligible to vote.

"But these precincts will be manned even though we are not certain anyone will vote in these places," he added.

Gottschalk said voter turnout in Diamondhead and Lakeshore is expected to be heavy.

"In Diamondhead turnout will be heavy because one of the candidates lives there, in Lakeshore because the voters in this area are more interested (political races) than in any other precinct in the county," he added.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Gottschalk also reported there will be a reduced number of poll workers in this election because there is only one race with just two candidates.

Ansley—Bessie LaFontaine, Emelda Miles and Bernice Singley.
Lakeshore—Iona LaFontaine.

Bay High in play-offs with Forrest County AHS

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay Senior High School Tigers will play their first post-season game Friday at Forrest County Agricultural High School in Brooklyn.

Forrest County AHS is the District VIII runner-up and has a 9-1 record, Bay High Coach Cleveland Williams said.

The winner of this week's game will host the next game, leading to the possibility that Bay High may play at home next weekend, the coach added.

Williams said the Tigers, who finished the season with a 6-3 record, will have to cope with a fast Forrest County quarterback.

"We have been working hard and trying to iron out the problems we have had in the past," he added.

"The kids look good. They just didn't show that they wanted to win last week," the coach said, referring to last week's loss against local rival St. Stanislaus.

"We have to bounce back and get ready to play ball. It's all up to the players themselves."

"There's so little we can do as coaches. We prepare them Monday through Friday but when Friday nights come you can't play the game for them."

"It's going to take a total team effort."

The game will begin at Forrest County AHS at 7:30 p.m.

Barton to continue chamber's economic development series

Alan R. Barton, president and chief executive officer of Mississippi Power company, will be featured speaker at Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition coffee Tuesday, 7:30 a.m. at Scaffidi's Wheel Inn Restaurant, US-90, Bay St. Louis.

Barton came to Mississippi Power Company in 1982, having previously served as executive vice president of Alabama Power Company where he was employed in 1948 as a junior engineer.

He holds bachelor's degrees in electrical and mechanical engineering from Tulane and Auburn Universities, as well as a master's degree in business administration from the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

A member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronic Engineers, Barton has also been awarded membership in the National Engineering Honor Society, Alabama Gamma Chapter, Tau Beta Phi; and National Honor Societies, Phi Kappa Phi and Beta Gamma Sigma.

He is on the board of directors of Mississippi Power Company, The Southern Company, Southern Company Services, Inc. and the Southern Electric International Inc.

Barton is also on the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta-New Orleans branch and is an advisory director of the Hancock Bank of Gulfport.

He is a director of the Mississippi Economic Council, Mississippi Heart Association, Harrison County United Way, Warrior-Tombigbee Development Association, Business and Industry Political Education Committee and the Southeastern Electric Exchange.

He serves on the board of trustees of the Southern Research Institute, Millsaps College and the Mississippi Foundation of Independent colleges.

He is chairman of the Southeastern Electric Reliability Council and serves on the board of trustees of the North American Electric Reliability Council.

Barton is a member of the Auburn Alumni Engineering Council, the Mississippi State University Engineering Advisory Committee and the Gulfport Rotary Club. He also serves on the advisory board of the Greater Gulfport/Biloxi Foreign Trade Zone.

The general public is urged to attend this meeting and learn about the economic development potential of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and Hancock County.

Further information is available by calling the Chamber office at 467-9048.

Bay firm awarded Waveland school bid

BY DENA BISNETTE

A bid of $371,500 has been accepted from a Bay St. Louis firm for construction of an addition to Waveland Elementary School.

The Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District Board voted Monday to accept the bid of Oeco Construction Company, Inc., for the eight-classroom addition, Superintendent of Education Roger Oge stated.

The bid included one alternate item, a reworking of the school's intercom system to allow two-way communications between classrooms and the principal's office. At present, the office has one-way communications to the classrooms.

The eight-classroom addition was designed by Architect Fred Wagner, also of Bay St. Louis, and will be connected by an enclosed walkway to the existing building.

The addition is the first phase of a long-range building program to help reduce overpopulation in the district's schools.

After the Waveland addition is completed, additions and renovations are planned at North Bay Elementary, Bay Junior High and Bay Senior High School.

THANKS

I wish to express a sincere Thank You to all of my friends and supporters in my bid for Supervisor of District One.

Thanks for the many kindnesses shown to me. I will always be grateful for the old friendships renewed and new friendships established.

Gaze at the Stars on Davis Bayou

Gulf Islands National Seashore in conjunction with the Stars Planetarium will host the evening program, "Planets After Sunset", on Friday, Nov. 13 at 7 p.m. at the public boat ramp located in the Davis Bayou area, of Gulf Islands National Seashore in Ocean Springs. Superintendent Jerry Eubanks said the public is invited to join in an evening of viewing Venus, Saturn and Jupiter.

Participants are asked to bring their telescopes and/or binoculars, as well as something to sit on comfortably. Ms. Regina Cates, director of the Stars Planetarium since 1982, will lead participants in the survey of fall planets and demonstrate the use of an eight inch telescope. Should weather prohibit the program will be rescheduled for Saturday, Nov. 14 at 7 p.m.

"The program is free of charge and open to the public and we hope that everyone will be able to take advantage of this opportunity to view the stars and planets visible in the Mississippi Gulf Coast skies," said Eubanks.

For more information on this and other interpretive activities available through the William Colmer Visitor Center at Davis Bayou, please call (601) 875-0821.

FISH FRY

Mr. K. C. Mitchell is providing a free fish fry for the senior citizens again this year at his Silver Creek Catfish House on Monday, Nov. 23 at noon.

We all appreciate this Thanksgiving special and do thank Mr. Mitchell and all of his helpers for providing this for us.

We do not want to take advantage of his kindness and generosity, so please do not ask for take-home dinners for friends or family who cannot come to the restaurant.

The offer is for senior citizens only, no children or grandchildren, and is to be eaten at the restaurant only. Please cooperate!

Because the buses are on a schedule, please note that they will be served first, at 11:30 a.m. and the rest of the seniors will be served starting at noon. Mr. Mitchell has never run out of food, so don't worry about having to be there at 10 or 11 a.m. Come at noon, or 12:30.

THANK YOU HANCOCK COUNTY

You gave me your support and confidence. I will give Hancock County a coroners office you can be proud of.

Litner named contractor for emergency room

BY DENA BISNETTE

Hancock Medical Center has a new emergency room contractor.

Dr. Joseph Litner, M.D., the new contractor, has come to Hancock Medical Center from Metairie, La., Hospital Administrator Phillip Wolfe stated.

Litner took over management of the emergency room on Nov. 1.

Wolfe said the new contractor is operating with exactly the same services and will continue to employ any of current physicians who wish to continue providing emergency services.

"We're extremely happy," Wolfe stated. "I think he's going to do a real good job."

Wolfe said Litner has emergency room contracts with several other hospitals in Picayune and in Louisiana, including Hotel Dieu in New Orleans, the Louisiana state hospital in Gonzalez, and the Plaquemines Parish hospital.

Both Litner and his wife, Dr. Marie Hughey, are board certified in emergency medicine, the administrator added. Hughey is also working at Hancock Medical Center.

The new contractor is being paid on a per-hour basis according to common practice, he added.

He succeeds Dr. David Sawyer, who did not renew his contract with Hancock Medical Center this year. Wolfe said more than 50 percent of hospital admissions come through emergency room, which is open 24 hours, seven days a week.

OLA beats Bay High, bows to Biloxi in district volleyball tourney

Our Lady Academy placed fourth out of the eight teams in District VIII Girls Volleyball.

The OLA starting line up was Cynthia Martinolich, Shannon Williams, Nicole Montagney, Shannon Maggio, Rachel Hays and Jan Scardino.

Liz Haas and Lauri Gagnon completed the OLA roster. Cynthia Martinolich was named to the District VIII Team.

Our Lady Academy beat rival Bay High in the first round of the District VIII Girls Volleyball Tournament at Biloxi High School. OLA won 16-14 and 15-10.

Ten minutes after beating Bay High, the OLA team was faced with playing the number one seeded team, Biloxi.

OLA did not have long to enjoy victory before being defeated by Biloxi 15-6 and 15-8. Coach Harry Hill called several time outs to help his players get control of the game.

The next evening OLA beat Mercy Cross 15-7 and 15-5. They were eliminated from the tournament by a loss to Our Lady of Victory 15-9 and 15-12.

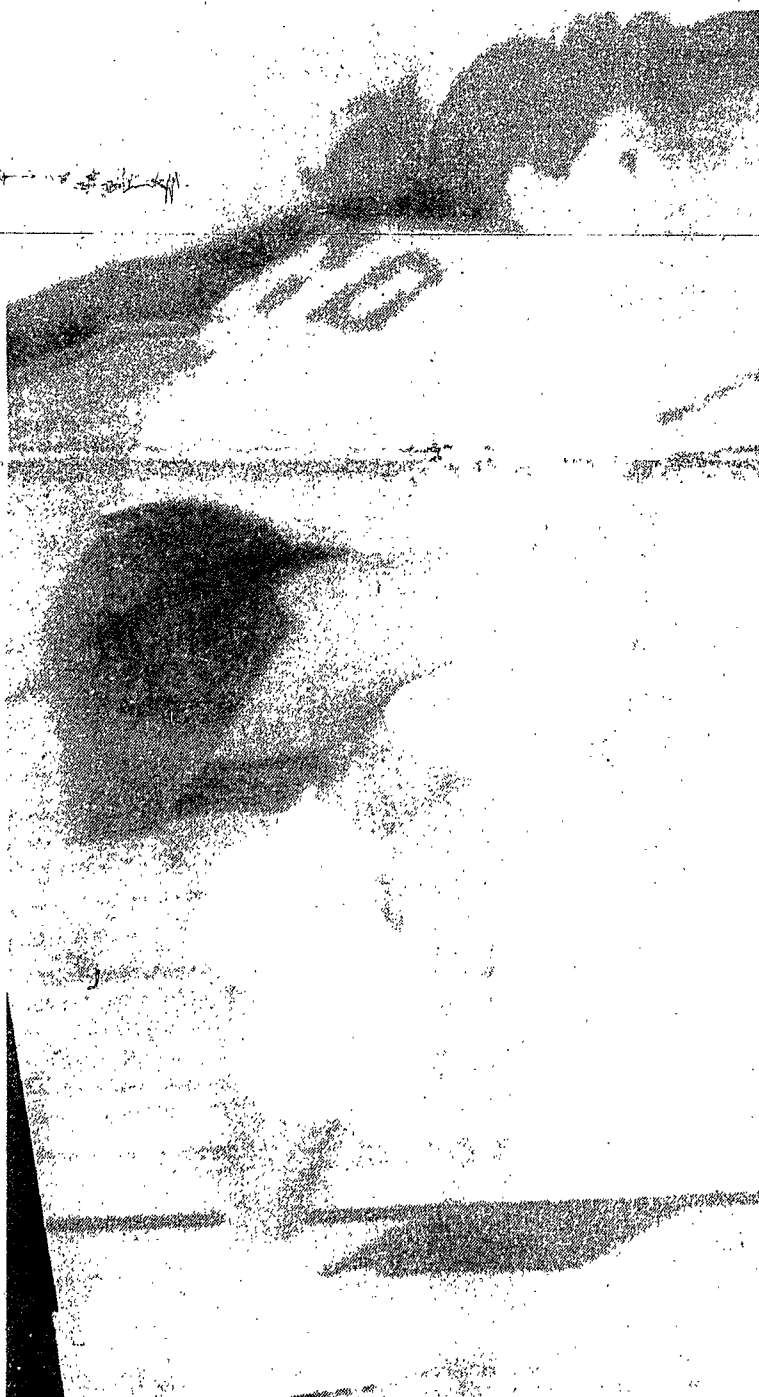

Long Beach, coming from behind in the losers' bracket, came out first by beating Biloxi four games in a row.

OLA Coach Harry Hill commented that "the OLA team played good volleyball during the tournament. They improved almost every game during the season. Cynthia Martinolich who was named on the District VIII Team is a great competitor who has lots of heart, spirit, spunk and fun.

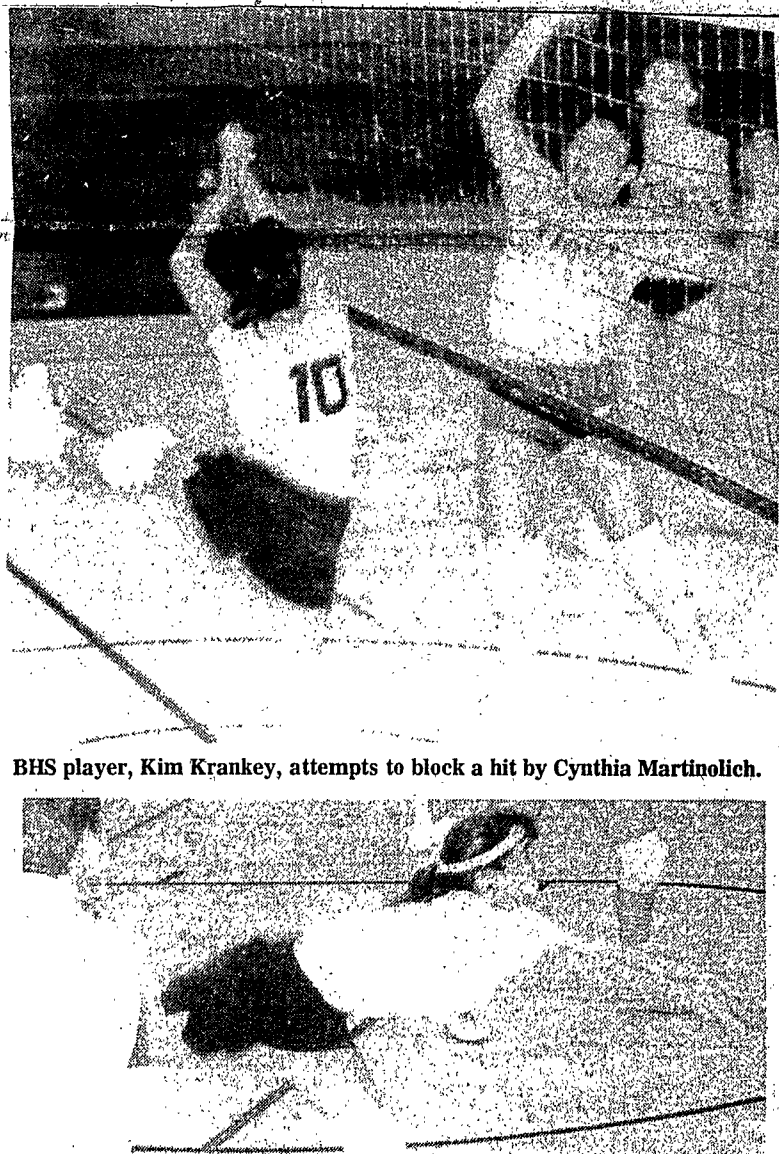

Five out of the six starters are seniors this year so that lots of rebuilding will have to be done next year to have the team competitive."

Migratory bird

Cormorants feast in Delta catfish ponds

By Tyson Gair
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service
BELZONI—When most farmers think of pests, visions of insects and weeds come to mind. Catfish farmers, however, are having pest problems of a completely different kind. The pest in this case is a migratory bird called the double-crested cormorant, and the birds are scooping up farm-raised catfish in ever-increasing numbers right out of Delta ponds. This new pest is also leaving farmers virtually helpless to do anything about it. Catfish production is big business in the Delta with more than 80,000 acres devoted to producing this fish.

The boom in building and stocking catfish ponds has been like setting a giant winter feast table for these annual visitors from the North.

Cormorants are primarily fish eating birds that nest in Northern states such as Minnesota and Wisconsin and spend their winters in the South. Before the birds discovered farm-raised catfish, they made their winter home in the bayous of Louisiana and along streams flowing into the Mississippi River.

Large ponds stocked with 65,000 catfish have prompted cormorants to expand their range out of these traditional feeding areas.

"A catfish pond is easy pickings for a cormorant," said Dr. Ed Jones, a wildlife specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "It's not as difficult to feed as it used to be in the breaks and bayous."

"I like to tell everybody the birds are like the fisherman who has found a honey hole and they're flying back there every year," said Tommy Taylor, a county agent in Humphreys County where thousands of acres of catfish ponds have been built.

"They're taking the small fish and we sure need control."

A lack of ability to control the birds is the major problem facing catfish farmers. Cormorants are migratory, and they are a species protected by the federal government. That designation means farmers can't hunt or kill the birds.

About the only control measure catfish farmers now have is to rely on artificial noisemakers designed to scare the birds away. Propane gas-propelled cannons are big sellers in the Delta these days. They can be set to fire automatically at regular intervals throughout the day.

The cormorants, however, get accustomed to a certain sound and force farmers to vary the kind of noisemakers used to keep the birds off guard.

Officials now estimate that each cormorant can eat between a half and one pound of fish every day, but researchers don't really know for sure how many fish the birds are taking from catfish ponds.

Mississippi State University has launched a research study to learn more about the eating and nesting habits of the birds in hopes of finding a solution.

"What we're trying to find out is how much fish the cormorants actually take when they are feeding, and what kind of impact this may have on the catfish industry," Jones said.

The wildlife specialist also worries about the potential these birds have for ceasing to be migratory because of the easy food source.

"They could become a resident species," Jones said. "They could start nesting in the South and be more of a problem than they are today."

Feasting on catfish is not the only problem the birds pose in the Delta. Catfish officials also are growing concerned about the impact the birds have on spreading catfish diseases from pond to pond.

"It would seem logical that if these birds eat sick fish in one pond that may be having a bacterial epidemic, they can potentially infect other ponds."

Thriffiley leads Majors' attack in 26-24 Jackson, Tenn. win

Saturday afternoon at Seibert Stadium on the campus of Samford University in Birmingham, Ala. at 1:30 p.m., the Millsaps College Majors of Jackson, Miss. will bring a 7-2 record against Samford's 7-1 season total.

Millsaps leads the series 17-13-2. Samford defeated the Major 17-14 last year in Jackson.

Last week the Majors defeated a tough Lane College football team 26-24. The Jackson, Tenn. team missed a two-point conversion with 1:32 left in the game to seal the win for Millsaps.

Millsaps was outgained in total offense 371 yards to 364 yards.

Leading the ground attack for the Majors were TB Todd Thriffiley and FB Andy Mansukhani. Thriffiley had 104 yards on only six carries, including a 59-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. Mansukhani, a sophomore, banged out 75 yards on 15 carries as the Majors rolled up 220 yards on the ground.

Millsaps QB Rusty Davis completed 11 of 24 passes for 114 yards and three touchdowns. Davis threw one apiece to FB Jerry Leonard, WB Mike Brown and TB Todd Thriffiley.

SE Darrin Estes was the Majors' leading receiver, hauling in four passes for 70 yards.

The Majors' defense recovered two fumbles and blocked one extra point. Recovering fumbles were Defensive End Jason Walenta and Noseguard Andy White. Defensive Tackle Scott Green blocked Lane's first touchdown extra point attempt to help Millsaps to an early 19-6 lead.

Majors players to watch include QB Rusty Davis, TB Todd Thriffiley, SE-P Darrin Estes and SS Aubrey Falls.

Common opponents: Tennessee Wesleyan is the lone common opponent. Samford defeated the Bulldogs 59-7 while the Majors defeated the Tennessee team 31-0 in the season opener.

Samford University is a NCAA Division III independent school located in Birmingham, Ala. The Bulldogs field a squad of over 100 players, including 16 starters from the 1986 team that was 3-6 last year. Samford is currently leading the NCAA Div. III in both scoring and total offense, averaging 50.1 points and 509 yards a game.

Samford players to watch include QB Jimbo Fisher, 184-100, 1,694 yards, 27 touchdowns; WR Rim Richardson, 23 catches, 632 yards, 9 touchdowns; WR Gerald Neaves, 23 catches, 441 yards, 9 touchdowns; FB Robert Smith, 125 rushes, 767 yards, 5 touchdowns; and FB Billy Robinson, 73 tackles, 1 interception.

Saturday's ballgame will feature two of the nation's Division III top punters. Samford punter Tim Hemrick currently holds a 42.6 average on 26 punts while Millsaps punter Darrin Estes, last year's Div. III champion (43.1 yds), is currently averaging 41.3 yards this year. Both punters are among the nation's top three.

Bulldogs take hard-fought Crab Bowl victory

The undefeated, Gulfview Bulldogs, before game time dedicated the 16th Annual Crab Bowl to teammate Thurman Hillegeist, who has missed the last two games because of cancer.

The Bulldogs defeated Pearl River 22-14 Saturday night at Gulfview field.

The high-spirited Bulldogs pushed the ball down field on strong running from Sherman Davis and Stanley Garcia.

Gulfview scored on a 29 yard pass from QB Doug Autherment to tight end Jody Ladner. The two point conversion was made by Sherman Davis.

The Bulldog defense led by Joey Kost, Amos Huffman, Wade Penton, Billy Ramigoz and Stanley Garcia shut down the Blue Devil offense while the offense of the Bulldogs continued to move the ball, only to be plagued by fumbles.

The Bulldogs fumbled on the one foot line as the first half came to an end with the score 8-0.

During the Third Quarter the Bulldogs again moved the ball on the Blue Devil Defense, and on fourth down and 8 yards to go Doug Autherment hit Joey Kost for 10 yards and a first down.

Autherment then scored from one yard out and again the two point conversion was scored by Sherman Davis.

The third quarter came to an end with Bobby Thaxton Scoring making the score 16-8.

Pearl River was successful on an on-side kick only to be intercepted on second down by Sherman Davis who returned the ball 70 yards for a Bulldog TD.

On the next Blue Devil possession the Bulldogs were accessed a roughing the QB penalty, Pass interference and a personal foul to move the Blue Devils in scoring position.

Pearl River scored from one yard out making the score 22-14 as the game came to an end.

Offensive Player of the game was Gulfview's Sherman Davis.

Defensive Player was Blue Devil Bobby Thaxton.

Wildlife department gets new director

JACKSON—W. Vernon Bevil is the new executive director of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation, according to an agency spokesman in Jackson.

The announcement was made Friday morning, Oct. 30 by Commission Chairman S. T. Rayburn of Oxford, at a general staff meeting of the wildlife department in Jackson.

Bevil, 42, is a native of Mansfield, La. and former director of the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission.

A 1968 graduate in wildlife management from Louisiana Tech, Bevil received his master's in wildlife science from New Mexico State University in 1970.

From 1970-80 Bevil was a turkey biologist with the South Carolina Wildlife and Marine Resources Department, serving as turkey project leader for that agency.

Then from 1980-85 Bevil was director of the 450-employee North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission, an agency with an $18 million budget.

Bevil served briefly as a regional director for Ducks Unlimited in eastern North Carolina before starting Upland Enterprises, a family business engaged in the development of outdoor products.

At a news conference in Jackson on Friday, Commission chairman S. T. Rayburn outlined Bevil's professional credentials and said Mississippi was lucky to get a director with his reputation.

"I spoke with another wildlife director recently, and he said that if we could get Vernon Bevil as our executive director, we would be getting someone who would give Mississippi's department instant credibility," Rayburn said.

Rayburn said that Bevil's appointment would take effect immediately.

Bevil is a past president of the Southeastern Association of Game and Fish Agencies and has served on the executive committee of the International Association of Fish and Wildlife Agencies.

Last month Bevil was named to the list of distinguished alumnus of New Mexico State University.

Bevil is married to Mary Weedon Bevil and they have three sons ranging in age from 14 to 21.

One of the most incredible records in football history was set by the University of Nebraska in a game against Colorado in 1983 when Nebraska—unbelievably—scored the amazing total of 41 points in LESS THAN 3 MINUTES! Early in the third quarter, Nebraska made 6 touchdowns on a combination of long runs, fumble recoveries and pass interceptions, and kicked 5 extra points, for that total of 41 points in just 2 minutes and 55 seconds!

Where's the biggest football stadium in America? Answer is the Rose Bowl seats 104,091 people. Second-biggest is the University of Michigan Stadium which seats 101,701.

What was the toughest schedule any football team ever played? How about this. In 1899, Sewanee played 5 games in 5 different cities in 6 days against Texas, Texas A&M, Tulane, LSU and Mississippi. And the amazing thing is, Sewanee won each of those games!

Hancock Chamber of Commerce names student directors

The 1987-1988 student directors of the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce have been announced, according to Syble Paul, chairman of the Chamber's education committee.

Those named are Stephen Cuevas, St. Stanislaus High School; Heidi Hester, Hancock North Central High School; Marla Kelly, Our Lady Academy; Kim Krankey, Bay Senior High School; and Leah Salsbury, Coast Episcopal High School.

Stephen Cuevas, 17, a senior at St. Stanislaus, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cuevas of Bay St. Louis. He is a member of the SSC football team, the SSC basketball team statistician, president of the senior class and a member of the student council executive board. He is also treasurer of the SADD (Students Against Drunk Drivers).

Heidi Hester, 17, the daughter of Mary Ellen Hester of Pearlinton, is a senior at Hancock North Central.

She is a member of the Futrue Business Leaders of America (FBLA), and the Beta Club.

Marla Kelly, 17, a senior at Our Lady Academy, is the daughter of Donald Kelly of Bay St. Louis. She is the photography editor of the yearbook and the senior class vice president. She has been a member of SADD and intermural volleyball for the past three years; and track and field for two years.

Kim Krankey, 17, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Krankey of Bay St. Louis, is a senior at Bay Senior High School.

She is president of the student council, editor of the yearbook, treasurer of the National Honor Society, and was recently named Miss Bay High, Most Likely to Succeed, Most Beautiful and Most Likely to be Missed.

She was also named the Exchange Club Student of the Month last month.

She has been named an Air Force

ROTC Scholarship Finalist and was the winner of the Time-Century III Leadership Scholarship. She has served on the school's volleyball team for four years; and was named Student of the Month and class president during her sophomore year.

Leah Salsbury, 17, a senior at Coast Episcopal High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Salsbury of Bay St. Louis. She is the senior class vice president and captain of the cheerleading squad.

"We feel these student representatives, who were selected by their respective schools, will be a tremendous asset to the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce this year," said Paul.

The student directors will receive honorary membership in the Chamber and will attend meetings of the Board of Directors to enable them to become familiar with the workings of the Chamber in the community.

Many thanks to the students who worked hard at selling gift wrapping paper as our latest fundraiser. Faculty members are proud of the school spirit these students display. Undeclared Bulldogs beat Pearl River Central Blue Devils in the Junior Crab-Bowl on Saturday at Gulfview, 22 to 14.

Team members are hoping for an invitation to play in the Superdome in New Orleans before the high school playoffs.

There will be a basketball game Thursday between the Bulldogs and Charles B. Murphy at 5:30 p.m. in Pearlinton.

Gulfview Bulldogs basketball team will meet in their first home game of the season with Mercy Cross on Monday at 6 p.m.

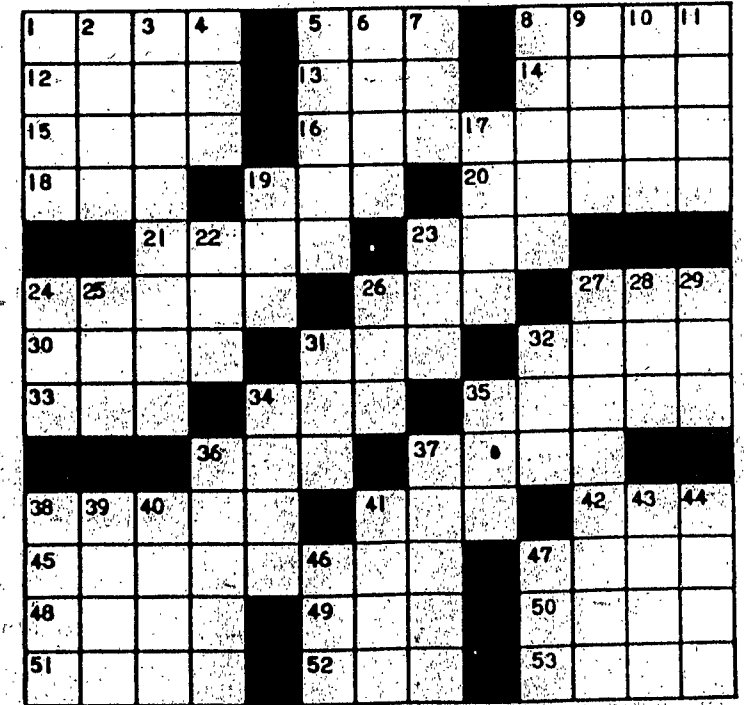

Junior Girl Scout Troop 206 and Brownie Troop 93 participated in Daisy Day at Buccanee State Park Nov. 7. Theme of the event was "Sports and Games."

There was a food booth at the county fair by Junior Girl Scout Troop 206 on Nov. 6 and 7 where nachos, homemade chili and baked goods donated by parents were sold.

Brownie Troop 93 and Junior Girl Scouts entered a garden club contest and won ribbons for their natural Christmas ornaments. Girl Scouts are conducting their annual calendar fund raiser until Nov. 20.

Winter registration set at USM-Gulf Coast campuses

LONG BEACH—The University of Southern Mississippi's Gulf Coast campuses will register students for the winter term at specified times Nov. 11 or 12.

USM-Gulf Park registration will be in the administration building on the Long Beach campus, on U.S. 90, from 1 to 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 11.

USM-Keesler registration will take place at Arnold Hall at Keesler Air Force Base from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 12.

USM-Jackson County registration will be from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 12, at the USM-Jackson County Center on U.S. 90 in Gautier.

Students transferring credits from other institutions must submit them before registration. Exceptions must be approved through the student services office. A minimum of 54 semester hours is required for admission, in addition to meeting other admission requirements. Tuition for undergraduate courses is $58 per semester hour, and graduate tuition is $70 per semester hour. Visa and MasterCard are accepted. One-half of a student's total fees for the semester is due at registration.

Awarded loans, grants or scholarships apply toward the amount due at registration.

In addition to regular classes, the Education Department will offer five-week courses for the convenience of students who must meet certain student teaching requirements. Students may register for these courses, which will begin following the Christmas break, during regular registration Nov. 11-12.

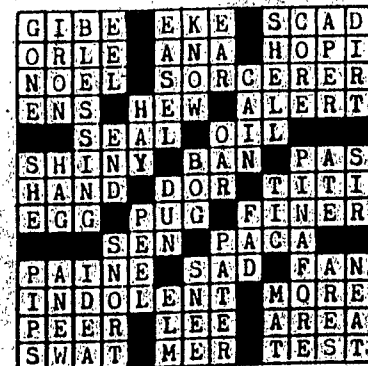

For more information, call USM at (601) 865-4500 in Harrison County or at (601) 497-3636 in Jackson County.

UNO sets campus visitation day for high school students

"UNO Intro," a college-campus visitation program for high school students, will be from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Friday, Nov. 13 at the University of New Orleans.

The free program is open to all high school students, particularly those at the junior and senior class levels. It will feature campus tours and workshops on planning for college, selecting a major, financing a college education, preparing for the American College Test (ACT), and what to expect from college. Additionally, the students will be given the opportunity to meet UNO faculty, staff and students and find out about UNO's academic offerings.

Students wishing to attend will register in Room 203 of the UNO University Center, although advanced reservations are not necessary. For information, call the Office of Recruiting and School Relations at 286-6601.

AIDS researcher at USM forum

One of the country's leading authorities on the quest for a cure for the deadly AIDS virus will be the next featured speaker in the University of Southern Mississippi's University Forum lecture series.

Dr. Bruce Dull will present "AIDS and Epidemiology: How to Stop a Killer." Nov. 17 at 7 p.m. in Bennett Auditorium on the USM campus.

In his lecture, Dull will address several questions about AIDS, including: How is AIDS investigated? Is AIDS principally a homosexual disease? What are the symptoms? and Is there a danger on college campuses?

Dull is a former assistant director of the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta and a participant in the recent international conference on AIDS hosted by the CDC.

He is a member of the Infectious Disease Advisory Board of the National Institute of Health and director of the Atlanta-based firm, Preventive Medicine Associates.

A former U.S. assistant surgeon general, Dull has also served as Epidemic Intelligence Service Officer to the U.S. Public Health Service.

Coast women artists' exhibit set at USM

HATTIESBURG—The vision and talents of three Gulf Coast women artists will be exhibited at the University of Southern Mississippi's C.W. Woods Art Gallery during November and December.

The work of Long Beach artists J.J. Foley and Terry Blake and Bay St. Louis painter Kat Fitzpatrick will hang Nov. 17 through Dec. 11. A gallery reception for the artists is planned from 2-4 p.m. Nov. 22.

"These three artists have combined their talents and visions in this exhibit of paintings, which portrays the rhythm of their lives—living and raising their families on the Gulf Coast," said Barbara-Ann Carver-Hunt, coordinator of USM's Woods Gallery.

According to Carver-Hunt, Foley's almost mural-like figurative paintings are a celebration of the human form in the French tradition of Degas and Ingres; Fitzpatrick's almost photo-realistic figures in landscape vistas are made accessible by the intimate scale of her canvases; and Blake's two-dimensional pattern paintings abstracted from the Mississippi Gulf Coast landscape, have the flat textured quality of woodcut and textile prints.

Foley and Blake are former USM students with BFA degrees in painting. Fitzpatrick, a native of New Orleans, now lives and works in Bay St. Louis.

Woods Gallery hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and 2-4 p.m. on Sundays (for artist's receptions and during scheduled exhibits).

For more information write Southern Station Box 5033, Hattiesburg, Miss., 39406-5033, or call (601)-266-4972.

POPLARVILLE—Pearl River Junior College is the recipient of one of the largest gifts ever presented to a Mississippi community or junior college.

Tatum Land Management Limited of Hattiesburg has donated 36 acres of land within the city limits of Hattiesburg to Pearl River College through the PRC Development Foundation.

The acreage is adjacent to the Pearl River College Forrest County campus, on Highway 49 south, and is within the massive 4400 acre commercial and residential development proposed by Tatum Land Management Limited.

"This will complete one very essential component for expansion of technology and other program offerings at the Forrest County campus," said Dr. Ted J. Alexander, president of Pearl River College.

Senator Martin T. Smith, chairman of the PRC Development Foundation, made the announcement of the college's good fortune here Saturday during PRC's annual Homecoming Alumni Luncheon.

"This investment will absolutely assure a better economic future for many citizens of the PRC district," said Jim Thrifflay, chairman of the PRC Board. "This is one of the most meaningful contributions ever rendered to the college. On behalf of the Board, I express our heartfelt appreciation."

The board's vice chairman, Dr. Tom Blakeney said, "This significant gesture on the part of Tatum Land Management Limited is certainly indicative of their interest in a better economic future of the Pearl River District. We do sincerely appreciate their willingness to make this most significant investment in the future of our citizens in this part of the state."

Pearl River College, Mississippi's pioneer junior college and the oldest public junior college in the nation, serves the six-county district of Forrest, Jefferson Davis, Marion, Lamar, Pearl River, and Hancock Counties.

Pearl River College, with its main campus in Poplarville, offers a broad range of educational programs including two-year college academic coursework; secondary and post-secondary vocational technical training; adult continuing education and one and two-year occupational programs.

The Tatum Land Management Limited donation includes frontage on Highway 49, as well as acreage to the north and northeast of the present campus and on both sides of the proposed extension of Penton Road.

In spite of the maximum utilization of the existing facilities, training programs and additional technology programs requested by local businesses must go unfulfilled," said Dr. Alexander. Due to insufficient facilities, many applicants are refused entrance into some programs and additional training programs are not offered because of lack of space.

The demand from area hospitals and clinics from trained allied health employees necessitates additional technology program offerings at the Forrest County Center.

"The Forrest County Center is a prime location for such a facility because of its proximity to a large collection of professional medical organizations," Dr. Alexander said.

This new acquisition will enable us to immediately pursue an allied health complex," Dr. Alexander said.

Additional programs requested for 1987-88 which were not offered at the Forrest County Center due to lack of facilities included dental assisting, surgical technology, dental hygienist, a secondary health occupations cluster, commercial food service, medical transcriptionist, and associate degree respiratory therapy.

At the present time the Forrest County Center offers both eight secondary and five post secondary programs and 37 part-time adult evening classes.

In addition to its students enrolled in day classes, adult evening programs and industrial training programs, the center provides special services through numerous activities each year requested by local businesses and state and federal agencies.

The center today serves approximately 600 student each semester and is utilized from 8 a.m. until 10 p.m., a minimum of five days per week.

Opera/South will stage 'Hansel and Gretel'

Opera/South will mark its 16th season with the production of "Hansel and Gretel," by Engelbert Humperdink, on Nov. 5-6 at Jackson Municipal Auditorium.

The production will start at 8 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 5, and 10 a.m. Friday, Nov. 6. For ticket information, call 968-2700.

Hansel and Gretel, as the fable goes, were the children of Peter, a poor broom maker, and they lived happily in a tumble-down hut in the woods.

One day their mother returned from an errand to find that the children had neglected the work they had been told to do.

This made her very cross, and she rushed after Hansel, but as she reached to box his ears she upset the jug of milk that was to have been the family's supper.

To provide the evening meal she, therefore, sent both the children to the forest to gather some berries.

The young culprits skipped merrily off into the woods where they soon had their basket full of berries. On their way home, however, they lost their way; and growing very tired, they lay down under a large oak tree and fell fast asleep.

When Hansel and Gretel awoke they were surprised to see, right in front of them a cozy little house whose walls and roof were made of cakes and sweets, and whose gingerbread fence was cut out into figures of children.

At first they were delighted, but soon they discovered that the wonderful house belonged to a wicked old witch who, stealing softly upon them, seized Hansel, and prepared to bake him in a large oven.

After many exciting moments, the frightened children finally succeeded in freeing themselves by pushing the old Witch into her own oven.

And then, as all the gingerbread children came to life and joined hands in a merry dance, Peter, the broom maker, and his wife arrived—just in time to pull from the oven the wicked old Witch in the form of a huge gingerbread.

Playing the part of Hansel is Phyllis Lewis, a Jackson State University (JSU) voice student; Gretel, Gay-Lynn Shelut, a JSU adjunct faculty member in music; the witch, Mary Henderson, artist-in-residence for voice at Washington University at St. Louis; Peter, Don Huddleston, a JSU voice student.

The character Gertrude will be performed by Johnnie Mae Smith-Robinson, a member of the Alcorn State University music faculty; the Dew Fairy by Jennifer Turner, a student at Alcorn State University; and the Sandman by Charlotte Sanders, also of Alcorn State University.

The chorus is composed of the Utica Campus Choir of the Hinds Junior College District, the JSU Choral and the Alcorn State University Choir.

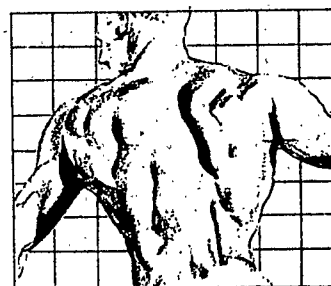

This is the first opera production staged by Opera/South since Dr. Bill Jaye Schooley was named general manager on July 1, 1987.

Opera/South is one of two black professional opera companies in the country, and the only one sponsored by an institution of higher learning.

The company was chartered in 1971 and is currently sponsored by JSU and the Utica Campus of the Hinds Junior College District to give students a chance to work with professional opera.

Opera/South also exposes opera to new audiences and provides opportunities for young American artists

SCIENCE SCREEN REPORT—Until the recent Voyager mission scientists knew little about the planets of the outer solar system—Jupiter, Saturn and Neptune. The seventh planet from the Sun, Uranus, remained a mystery. This month's Science Screen Report relives the Voyager expedition with a grand tour encompassing nearly two billion miles, revealing facts and oddities of

CEHS seventh graders named in Duke talent ID program

Two seventh grade students at Coast Episcopal High School have been selected as candidates in the Duke University Talent Identification Program.

They are Nathan Guice, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Guice III of Biloxi and George Hlass, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hlass of Long Beach.

These students had test scores above the 97th percentile on the California Achievement Test.

The Duke University Program focuses on exceptionally bright this pale and distant world never before imagined. The Science Screen Report is a monthly international film/video series that presents the latest developments in science, medicine and engineering which is donated to the schools of Bay St. Louis as a community service by Alcan Cable.

children in sixteen states of the southeast, southwest, and midwest United States.

The objectives of the program are to identify very bright children at an early age, to assist in their educational development, to follow and nurture their talent during the critical middle and high school years, to assist in their placement in colleges and universities which have programs to match the student's potential, and to develop an effective research effort to help understand the nature of gifted adolescents.

This is the first year the students have a choice of which college entrance exam they will take, either the ACT or the SAT. These entrance tests are the same tests which are administered to college bound juniors and seniors.

George Hlass and Nathan Guice

Coast Episcopal High names distinguished students

Coast Episcopal High School has announced the selection of 25 students for membership to the Society of Distinguished American High School Students.

The main criteria for membership is academic excellence, plus a demonstration of exceptional leadership abilities in school, service or athletic activities.

Seniors selected are Kristin Catron, Tori Cazier, Nancy Drury, Lauren Gipson, Sharon Orlin, Walter Rode and Susannah Shellnut.

Juniors are Malise Marchal, John Roper Jr., Rea Montjoy, Sean Bell and Arthur Grant.

Sophomores named include Jennifer Burkett, Margaret Clarkson, William Guice, IV, Scott Covode, Scott Hourin and Phillip Spinks.

Freshmen are Leanne Stafford, Laura Taylor, Rebecca Thompson,

Grant will fund USM computer

HATTIESBURG—A $900 manufacturer's grant will fund the purchase of state-of-the-art computer software for engineering technology students at the University of Southern Mississippi.

According to Dr. A.E. Leybourne, associate professor of engineering technology, the donation from Auto Desk Inc., a software manufacturer in Sausalito, Calif., will allow the present version of a computer-aided drafting software package to be updated.

The latest version of the Auto Cad program used on PC microcomputers will be placed in the general purpose laboratory on the first floor of the Chain Technology Building at USM. It will be used by junior, senior and graduate level students in manufacturing, he said.

Youth Brief

JONES APPOINTED
Twenty-two professional educators have been appointed by State Superintendent Richard Boyd to represent their professional organizations on the Curriculum Advisory Committee established by the Bureau of School Improvement, Curriculum and Textbook Office, Mississippi Department of Education.

Betty Ann Jones of Bay-Waveland School District, will represent the Mississippi Association of Supervisors of Reading and English.

The Curriculum Advisory Committee was established to bring about a statewide communication network between the professional organizations and the Bureau of School Improvement Curriculum Office.

The committee will deal with matters related to the Mississippi curriculum structure, legislative curriculum and instruction mandates, and State Board of Education curriculum policy.

The reason there are so many surnames of Smith today is that during the Middle Ages the name was used for all metalworkers, or smiths, which means "to beat."

Millsaps management school recognized

JACKSON—Millsaps College's Else School of Management has been ranked one of the top business schools in the South, according to a survey by U.S. News and World Report.

Results of the survey appear in the Nov. 2 issue of the news magazine. The Else School of Management is rated fifth in the South.

Top ratings in the South went to George Mason University of Virginia and Rice University in Texas, the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga and the University of Texas at Dallas. Millsaps is the smallest school of any listed in the report.

The ratings were decided on the basis of questionnaires sent to 608 graduate schools of business in which the deans were asked to name the 10 best schools in their professional area, using criteria such as the quality of the faculty, the strength of the curriculum, how well a school prepares students professionally and the placement of its graduates in positions that contribute to the improvement of the profession and the public.

"Recognition by the deans of other business schools for the Else School of Management is an indication of the commitment to quality which Millsaps has for all of our academic programs," President George Harmon said.

"I am particularly grateful to Charles and Eloise Else, benefactors for whom the school is named; Mac and Mary Ann McCarty and Army and Iris Brown, who have endowed chairs in the school; and to the many business firms which have provided financial support for the school."

Six hundred universities in the U.S. award graduate business degrees, but only about a third of those are accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB).

The School of Management is accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and is in the process of attaining AACSB accreditation.

"When we attain AACSB accreditation, Millsaps will be the smallest school accredited that offers the BBA degree and the second smallest that offers the MBA degree," said Jerry Whitt, dean of the Else School of Management.

Atlanta University in Atlanta, Ga., is the smallest accredited business school offering the MBA.

According to Whitt, the Else School of Management is close to attaining accreditation, which takes into consideration the number of doctoral faculty on the teaching staff, the scholarly activity of the faculty, computer and library resources, how the school is managed and the ratio of full-time to part-time faculty.

Another criteria for accreditation is a history of accomplishment. The Else School of Management is relatively young. Millsaps opened the business school in 1979, and it was named the Else School of Management in 1986.

"It is particularly significant that we have been recognized by the business deans and overcome a lack of name recognition," Whitt said. "Millsaps is much more well known in liberal arts circles."

Another indication of the business school's strong regional recognition is Whitt's upcoming election as a director of the Southern Business Administration Association, which is the association of Southern business school deans. He was named to the nine-person governing board at a Tuesday meeting in New Orleans.

Geography Awareness Week set Nov. 15-21

HATTIESBURG—Twenty percent of American elementary school students who were asked to locate the United States on a world map placed it in Brazil, according to Congressional records.

That is part of the reason the 100th Congress of the United States resolved to declare Nov. 15-21 "Geography Awareness Week" across America.

The University of Southern Mississippi Department of Geography and Area Development plans to boost local awareness of geography during the observance as well, said Dr. Ralph Cross, a geography professor who is heading up the departmental effort.

"The reason we're calling attention to geography here is that geographical illiteracy is greater here (in the United States) than it is in other countries in the world," Cross said. "I'm sure (geographical illiteracy) has a lot to do with the problems we're having with foreign relations. Our people don't understand the other countries very well."

"There are not too many (U.S. citizens) that know the capital of Canada, for example, which is one of our closest neighbors," he said.

Cross said USM's geographers would make an effort to call media attention to geographic illiteracy

Coast Electric sponsoring youth tour

Two area high school students will have a chance to win an all-expense-paid trip to Washington D.C. in June 1988.

The week-long tour is jointly sponsored by Coast Electric Power Association; Electric Power Associations of Mississippi, the cooperative's state-wide organization; and NRECA its national service organization in Washington, D.C.

Purpose of the tour is to provide an opportunity for some outstanding young people to better understand the value of rural electrification; to become more familiar with the historical and political environment of the Nation's Capital; and better understand how the federal government works.

To qualify for the tour students must be high school juniors, submit a written essay on rural electrification and give an oral presentation on the submitted essay. A panel of independent judges will determine the contest winners.

In addition to being selected for the Washington trip, these students will also participate in a youth leadership seminar, sponsored by the Electric Power Associations of Mississippi.

The two-day seminar will be held in Jackson, Mississippi on March 24th and 25th and will be a springboard to the Washington trip. Participating students will study cooperatives and how they operate plus visit the state capital and sit in on sessions of the House of Representatives and the Senate.

For additional information about the Youth Tour Program, contact the Coast Electric's Member Services Department in Bay St. Louis, 467-6535.

Ole Miss museums plan Portfolio Day for high school students

UNIVERSITY—Mississippi high school students who participate in Portfolio Day 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Nov. 19 at The University of Mississippi will discover they need to learn the fine points of salesmanship to succeed as artists.

The free event for ninth through 12th-graders, sponsored by the University Museums and the Ole Miss Department of Art, will serve two purposes. The students will learn how to assemble their works in a professional manner, and the University will be able to recruit talented art students, Susan Varas Hannah, programs coordinator for the museums, said.

"An artist's portfolio can make or break you when applying for college entrance or a job," she said. "Portfolios can reveal a student's depth of work and expansion in their talent."

Participants in the statewide event will be eligible for a $500 scholarship. Two members of the faculty—Ron Dale, associate professor of art, and Jere Allen, professor of art—will judge the portfolios and will award the scholarship to the student with the best entry.

Students will have the opportunity to discuss their career goals and educational opportunities with the faculty. Tours of the Department of Art will be offered throughout the day.

For more information, contact Ms. Hannah at (601) 232-7073.

Education may reserve NSTL's video library

A new mobile video library offered to Mississippi and Louisiana educational institutions by NASA's National Space Technology Laboratories has been reserved for the remainder of the year and is now being scheduled for next year.

In September, NSTL announced its new video duplicating service which allows schools and libraries to copy 30 hours of NASA science-related videotapes for permanent use by teachers, students and the general public.

The taped programs were selected from the more than 300 educational programs in the NSTL Teacher Resource Center's collection. The tapes are copied on a video duplicator donated by Mississippi Power Co. and the equipment is housed in a special cabinet provided by the University of Southern Mississippi.

Jerry Brown, chief of NSTL's educational programs, said, "The goal of this new service is to reach as many students as possible to encourage them to pursue careers in science and technology. This initial response we received indicates a need for this type of service."

During September, the equipment was used by the Hancock County Library System, the Picayune and Hattiesburg school systems and the University of Southern Mississippi's main campus.

In October, the duplicator and tapes were transported to Jackson for use by the city schools, Jackson State University and the Davis Planetarium.

The November schedule begins with Hancock North Central High School, followed by Lumberton's library system, Fernwood Middle School in Biloxi and elementary schools in Slidell, La.

Slidell's Salem high School, the Gulfport-Harrison County Library System and the USM Gulf Park regional campus have reserved the equipment during December.

Schools and libraries can reserve the mobile video library by contacting the NASA Public Affairs Office at (601) 688-3341.

Engineering technology an enticing field

HATTIESBURG—There's little doubt rising college costs are forcing students to attend colleges closer to home and—especially for those considering a career in construction and architectural engineering technology—a look at the University of Southern Mississippi could prove beneficial.

The USM program, the only such program in the state, offers students a course of study in two areas—construction engineering technology and architectural engineering technology.

Both are four-year programs leading to a bachelor's degree, but each places emphasis on different aspects of the field, according to department Chairman Dr. B.J. Covington.

Students entering the construction engineering technology program should plan for careers in construction management, Covington advised. "With courses required in drafting, surveying, estimating, scheduling, purchasing, record-keeping and engineering principles, students will obtain a fundamental knowledge of all aspects of the construction industry."

Students choosing the architectural engineering technology program will wind up with the skills required for employment in the construction industry with firms that design, build, or both, Covington noted.

The program stresses architectural design aspects of the construction industry, from drafting to the principles of structural design. With the program's membership in the Academic Common Market, students enrolled in the program may waive out-of-state tuition.

Graduates of both programs may expect to receive salaries in the $25,000 range, Covington said, emphasizing that the 1982 accreditation by the Technology Accreditation Commission of the Accreditation Board for Engineering and Technology (TAC/ABET) promises further financial rewards for grads.

Begun as an architectural drafting major in 1957 under the USM College of Education and Psychology, the program evolved through an earlier name change to become the Department of Construction and Architectural Engineering Technology in 1982.

With 172 students now enrolled in the program, eight fulltime and two part-time faculty members are setting their sights for the next academic year, when a two-year program is expected to be in place for graduates of associate degree programs.

While enrollment in the department has remained steady, Covington said associate degree holders may attend USM beginning next year and complete requirements for a bachelor's degree in two years through the Computer-Aided Drafting and Design emphasis area.

"The construction industry accounts for a third of the gross national product," Covington said, adding, "With all our graduates entering the profession with very attractive salaries, our program may be the best-kept secret in the state."

National School Safety Center refunded

LOS ANGELES—With a new $1.4 million grant from the U.S. Department of Justice, the National School Safety Center will step up its efforts to promote safer school campuses—free of drugs, vandalism, gangs and bullying.

NSSC sponsors the annual "America's Safe Schools Week"—this year, Oct. 18-24—to recognize schools and programs throughout the United States that promote safe, secure and positive campus climates.

The annual grant award from the federal Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention is the fourth for the Epcito, California-based Center. The program is sponsored by Pepperdine University in Malibu, California.

Along with sponsoring the annual Safe Schools Week, NSSC is noted for producing a nationally acclaimed school safety film, "What's Wrong With This Picture?" Also, NSSC has produced several award-winning television and print media public service announcements and numerous publications. School Safety, the NSSC Newsjournal, is distributed three times a year to more than 50,000 school administrators, law enforcers, judges, state and federal legislators and media representatives.

The Center offers an extensive clearinghouse on school safety issues with more than 100,000 entries, including thousands of news articles covering a wide range of trends and effective programs. The Center handles 200 to 300 research and resource requests monthly. Staff members also provide on-site technical assistance to officials locally and in all 50 states.

An integral part of NSSC's mandate is to establish partnerships among schools, law enforcers, government officials, business leaders and other policy shapers in the community to facilitate efforts that ensure safer schools.

A key to NSSC's success has been to use its public service status to obtain support on various Center projects from such diverse interests as the national associations of elementary and secondary school principals; both teachers unions, the American Federation of Teachers and the National Education Association; The National PTA; the National Safety Council; former U.S. Chief Justice Warren Burger; First Lady Nancy Reagan; premier public relations counselor Edward L. Bernays; the Norman Rockwell Foundation; Walt Disney Educational Productions;

sports superstars Dave Winfield (New York Yankees) and Fernando Valenzuela (Los Angeles Dodgers); and ABC News' "20/20."

Schoolyard bullying and victimization, a problem Center staff and other researchers in adolescent aggression say is an often misunderstood and neglected, yet serious problem, will be a central focus this year for the Center's resources.

The first-ever Schoolyard Bully

Practicum, sponsored by NSSC in spring 1987 at Harvard University, brought together authorities from around the world to develop a national schoolyard bullying prevention program. Similar to successful programs in Scandinavia and Japan, the program proposed for the United States by the Practicum participants will use public relations strategies and tactics to heighten public awareness and involvement in resolving bullying problems.

WHEN IT COMES TO DOUBLE COUPONS, IT MAY BE YOU WHO GETS CLIPPED.

It stands to reason somebody has to make up for the cost of those double coupons. Guess who it is? You — by paying more for everything else at those stores. Delchamps knows you'd rather have a lower total food bill than double coupons. Which is why we have Everyday Minimum Pricing — absolutely lower pricing on every item, everyday.

The fire was reported by John (Lose) Williams approximately 10 a.m. According to Lizana, the fire was out by 10 a.m. Bay St. Louis firefighters, Lt.phonse Sheppard and Pam San Lipo and Lizana were first on the scene. There were no injuries in the incident; however, Lewis' wife and child were in the house when the fire started. Lizana said he really thanks the volunteers who helped out at the scene, including Steve Garber and Bay St. Louis Police Department an excellent job of crowd and fire control.
